The roots of our community are almost 150 years old. By the time of California's statehood in 1850, landings along the Bay in the vicinity of today's City of Newark had already begun to appear. In 1853, Mayhew's Landing included warehouses for wheat, hay, and coal. This activity triggered interest in the surrounding area and, by 1856, the Mayhew Ranch included 1,500 acres of farmland extending inland to present-day I-880. Less than 20 years later, the Perrin brothers had acquired the old Mayhews Ranch and had extended their holdings to include property stretching from today's Jarvis Avenue on the north to south of Thornton Avenue. The Perrin brothers' "development project," the Green Point Dairy and Transportation Company, although slightly embellished, foretold of things to come for the area. It was the Perrin brothers who first drew up plans to subdivide the Green Point Dairy into a town-site (although their project was located west of present downtown Newark in the general vicinity of Thornton Avenue and Jarvis Avenue).

A gentleman by the name of E. Beard started the early swamp reclamation project and patented the land in the area. Mr. Beard needed more capital and in 1872 sold 20,000 acres of swamp-land for $300,000 to Mr. J. Ross Browne. Mr. Browne outlined his swamp lands project before the State legislature on February 3, 1872. At this point, Mr. Browne referred to the proposed town site as "Cralvo" or "Cariboo." Mr. Browne created a circular that was distributed around Europe to promote the swamp lands project. An English capitalist bought an interest in the property and hired Mr. J. Barr Robertson (a Scotsman) to oversee his interests. Mr. Robertson was a director of the California Land Investment Co., Ltd., London, England. Mr. Robertson then bought out the interest that Mr. Browne had in the land. The name 'Newark' was chosen by Mr. Robertson, who named it after the castle "Newark" located on Dumbarton Point in Scotland (where the River Clyde enters the North Sea).

In 1876, the railroad, together with the Green Point Dairy, were purchased by a San Francisco capitalist, Alfred Davis, and a Comstock millionaire, Jim Fair. Soon, a railroad station, roundhouse, and railroad shop buildings were being erected in the center of Newark in the area between Thornton Avenue, Sycamore Street, and Carter Avenue. Eventually, the railroad was extended north from Newark to Alameda, providing direct ferry service to San Francisco. Newark has retained that sense of self-determination and independence, priding itself on its ability to operate lean and fast. This trait has resulted in benefits to its residents, from its success in securing Newpark Mall, with its jobs, tax revenues, and easily accessible shopping, to completion of the new Dumbarton Bridge and improvements on the Nimitz Freeway. While other cities struggle with internal differences, Newark continually moves forward cohesively, working for the good of the community and our residents and businesses. We have come a long way from the early visions of the Perrin Brothers and their Green Point Dairy and Transportation Company.

ALAMEDA COUNTY 2005 PUBLIC SCHOOLS TEST SCORES

What is STAR?

Each spring, California students in grades 2 through 11 take a series of tests through the Standardized Testing and Reporting program, more commonly known as STAR. First administered in 1998, the STAR program requires all public schools in California to test students between mid-March and mid-June of every year.

The component of the testing program included in this report consists of results for the California Standards Tests (CST). The CST consists of standards-based tests designed to show how well California students are mastering the grade-level content standards established by the state Board of Education. In grades 2 through 11, the California Standards Tests (CST) covers English-language arts and mathematics. In grades 4 and 7, the test includes a writing section. In grades 8, 10 and 11, the test adds history-social science. In grade 5, students take a science test. In grades 9 through 11 students take the California Standards Test for the math and science course (such as algebra, geometry, physics or chemistry) that they are currently enrolled in. Ninth graders who are not yet taking algebra take the General Mathematics Standards Test. Students in grades 9 and 10 who had completed Algebra II or Integrated Mathematics during a previous school year, and grade 11 students who completed one of these two courses anytime prior to the beginning of testing, are required to take the Summative High School Mathematics CST. The performance levels for each grade and subject area are based on scaled scores that range between 150 and 600. The score dividing the basic scores from below basic is 300 for every grade and subject area. The score dividing basic scores from proficient scores is 350 for every grade and subject area. Tables that include the score range for each grade level, subject area, and performance level is available at the website listed below.

In 2005 STAR testing also included the California Achievement Test, Sixth Edition (CAT/6) for grades 3 and 7 only. This test compares California students with their peers nationwide. The remaining two components of STAR testing include the California Alternative Performance Assessment (CAPA) and the Spanish Assessment of Basic Education, edition 2 (SABE/2). Information and test results for these three tests are available at <http://star.cde.ca.gov>. Report information was obtained from the California Department of Education website at: <http://star.cde.ca.gov>.

RAPID TRANSIT

The extension will begin at the new Warm Spring station (in Fremont), which will be under construction by 2004. Once built, the extension will be the connecting link between Santa Clara County and the current BART system. For more information on BART station locations and schedules, please consult BART's web site at <http://www.bart.gov/>.

The Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) provides dependable rapid transit access to much of the Bay Area. BART currently has its southernmost station in central Fremont and is working with the Santa Clara Valley Transportation Authority (VTA) to expand the BART system into the cities of Milpitas, San Jose, and Santa Clara.

RAIL

The Centerville Train Station, in Fremont, services the Altamont Commuter Express (ACE) and the Amtrak "Capitol Corridor" train lines. The Amtrak "Capitol Corridor" train line links Fremont to both Sacramento to the north and San Jose to the south. The Altamont Commuter Express (ACE) train line travels from San Joaquin County to Santa Clara. Freight needs are served by Union Pacific rail lines

BUS

The Santa Clara Valley Transportation Authority (VTA) also connects the Fremont BART station with Santa Clara County. For more information about AC Transit's lines and schedules, visit their web site at <http://www.actransit.org/> or call (510) 891-4727. For more information on VTA lines and schedules, visit their web site at <http://www.vta.org/> or call (408) 321-2300

Alameda County Transit (AC Transit) provides local bus service for western Alameda and Contra Costa counties, from Richmond in the north to Fremont in the south. The Eastbay Paratransit Consortium and individual cities provide paratransit service for this same area. The Dumbarton Consortium provides the DB Express service across the Dumbarton Bridge to Santa Clara and San Mateo counties on weekdays.

Operators at AC Transit help with planning your trip. They also provide customer service, including commendations, complaints, and other concerns.
